Construction Users Roundtable presents BIM Implementation

Cincinnati, OH

The Construction Users Roundtable is an association of leading owner corporations and organizations dedicated to the promotion of safe and cost effective construction practices. CURT exists to create a competitive advantage for construction users. CURT accomplishes this multifaceted objective by providing aggressive leadership on those business issues that promote excellence in the creation of capital assets.

The Construction Users Roundtable (CURT) is pleased to announce the release of its newest publication, UP-1203 BIM Implementation: An Owner's Guide to Getting Started. This publication is for owners who want to implement Building Information Modeling (BIM). Because each project and each owner's enterprise is inherently different, there is no fully developed, off-the-shelf, one-size-fits-all solution for BIM implementation. This practical guide will help owners develop a BIM implementation process that best suits their own situations and needs.

The publication may be downloaded electronically by CURT members from the CURT website, www.curt.org or ordered in hard copy by friends of CURT. This information is being made available to the construction industry through the efforts of the CURT Process Transformation Committee headed by Chuck Hardy, the General Services Administration and Bob Wilson, General Electric Co. CURT would also like to give special thanks to the members of the committee including Markku Allison of the AIA, David Morris of EMCOR, Tom Faraone representing AISC, Steve Jones from McGraw-Hill and Mike Kenig, Holder Construction representing AGC.

The next CURT membership meeting will be held June 15, 2010 in Washington, DC and is being generously sponsored by Watt, Tieder, Hoffar & Fitzgerald, LLP. This meeting is exclusively for CURT members and all interested owner representatives. Participation in the 4th Annual CURT ENR Business Forum where Chuck Hardy will be presenting on June 16, 2010 is open to anyone in the construction industry. Please contact the CURT office at 513-563-4131 or construction-users@curt.org with any questions.
